

30 June 2022

Dear colleagues,

Today we have seen changes to COVID-19 restrictions in Queensland which mean from 1:00am this morning, there are no restrictions on unvaccinated people entering our facilities.

However, restrictions remain for close contacts, diagnosed cases of COVID-19, and those in their post-isolation period, for our high-risk settings such as hospitals, aged care, and disability care.

Staff are also still required to be vaccinated against COVID-19 at Metro North Health.

Additionally, I'd like to remind you about keeping up adequate PPE in the workplace, including eyewear which is still required for COVID-19 patient care. We want to keep our workforce as well as possible this winter.

Kind Regards,

Alanna Geary
