

QUEENSLAND DIGITAL HEALTH

GRAND ROUNDS

The Queensland Digital Health Grand Rounds is designed to bring clinicians, academics and researchers together to hear up-and-coming innovations and applications of informatics in healthcare. The sessions inform and update participants on the latest developments in research and how health informatics is translating to inform and directly impact clinical care and patient outcomes.

ABOUT THE EVENT

The Queensland Digital Health Grand Rounds is a collaborative partnership involving The University of Queensland's The Centre for Health Services Research and Queensland Digital Academy. It is the leading digital health educational series in the state.

The series runs from February through to November each year with sessions held on the fourth Tuesday of the month. Presentations are hosted virtually from 12.30pm to 1.30pm.
