

Ethics and Governance Information Clinics

Thinking of starting a research project at the RBWH?

Before you begin the submission process, come to an Information Clinic to get advice from Research Services staff on:

- Ethical issues that may arise in your project
- Time frames for ethics and governance review
- Finalising contracts
- Differences between research and non-research activities and possible review options
- Legislative requirements for the use of data, including applications under the Public Health Act 2005 (Qld)
- Budget and finance approval process for researchers and students

Staff from the Human Research Ethics Committee (HREC) secretariat, Research Governance Office (RGO) and Finance Section will be available to provide advice.
