The Office of the Health Ombudsman (OHO) is Queensland's free and independent health service complaints agency.

If you are not satisfied with a health service provided to you or someone in your care, then it's your right to make a complaint. Before making a complaint with the OHO, try talking with the health service provider.

Visit the OHO's website for advice on talking with your provider.

If you are not satisfied with their response or feel uncomfortable talking with your provider directly, contact the OHO on 133 OHO (133 646) or visit www.oho.qld.gov.au.
