

Interactive Research Workshop 2018 Building and framing your research track record

Tuesday, 7th August 2018, 12:30pm - 2pm

RBWH Education Centre, Royal Brisbane and Women's Hospital

A light lunch will be available from 12:00pm

Topics:

- Why and how to build your research track record
- Framing and presenting your research skills
- Changes to how track record assessment contributes to local and NHMRC funding scheme applications

Workshop format:

- Introduction
- Brainstorm your own research CV using an NHMRC two page template
- Panel discussion

Who should participate:

- Clinicians who are new or early career researchers will benefit from this session

Please note: Attendance in person is required for this event and videoconferencing will not be available.

Hear from a panel of your peer facilitators including MNHHS Rising Star researchers:

- How did you start your research journey?
- How did you build your research track record?
- Who was your first research mentor and how did they help you?
