

Invitation to attend the Allied Health Research Higher Degree Student Network Meeting

29 May 2019

The Allied Health Research Higher Degrees Student Network consists of allied health clinicians who are planning to or currently undertaking research higher degrees. The network meets on a quarterly basis to share information, identify common issues and improve communication and collaboration. The meetings consist of a presentation on a topic requested by the membership, followed by a short discussion of research news and information including an opportunity to discuss issues raised by members.

This invitation is open to any members of the research community at RBWH and other research higher degree students from medical and nursing to attend.

Presentation Topic: 3 Minute Thesis – meaningful messaging in not much time!

Dr Elise Gane, Conjoint Research Fellow, Princess Alexandra Hospital and University of Queensland

Speaker:

Bio: Elise facilitates research within the department at PAH, contributes to teaching within the Physiotherapy program at UQ, and conducts her own program of research in cancer rehabilitation. She has presented her research at numerous national and international conferences, and is currently the National Chair of the Cancer, Palliative Care and Lymphoedema Group within the Australian Physiotherapy Association.

Wednesday 29 May 2019

Presentation: 12:00 -1:00pm

Network meeting: 1:00 -1:30pm

Time / Venue:

Meeting room 105a/b

Level 6, Block 7, RBWH

Please feel free to bring your lunch

RSVP: Click here to RSVP

For more information please contact Dr Angela Chang, Research Coordinator, Allied Health via email to angela.chang@health.qld.gov.au